Headline:
Cold and windy with showers, most frequent in the north.

Today:
A windy day with bright spells and showers. The showers will be frequent in the north, where they will give some heavy downpours, and it will be cold enough for snow over the mountains. Feeling cold in the strong winds. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers will continue through Saturday evening, but they will become increasingly isolated during the early hours with some long clear spells developing. Remaining rather windy. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Sunday:
Scattered showers at first on Sunday will slowly fade away through the morning, with most places dry and sunny in the afternoon. Brisk winds will again bring a noticeable wind-chill. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Early rain and hill snow Monday, soon clearing to showers. Gales or severe gales possible Tuesday, with rain followed by squally showers. Remaining very unsettled Wednesday with further gales likely.
